The UN's Antonio Guterres made it very clear in his remarks to G20 leaders that the COVID-19 threat is to all countries and people everywhere and that the magnitude of "our response must match the scale of the crisis". He then proceeded to give the growth rates: it took the world three months to reach 100 000 confirmed cases, 12 days for the next 100 000, four days for the third 100 000 and 1.5 days for the fourth 100 000. The United Nations launched a US$2 billion COVID-19 Global Humanitarian Response Plan to support the world's most vulnerable countries. The fund is mostly available to NGOs.
